VSO Software Newsletter n°14
July 2012

In this issue:
- What's new?
- VSO Helpdesk
- Did you know?

What's new?

-Wanna join the beta tester team?
Last month we announced some imminent releases... In order to test those releases, we now call upon all those who want to volunteer and be part of the Beta tester team! To be eligible, you need to own a license for ConvertXtoDVD 4, and have some knowledge of video conversion. Let us know if you want to volunteer. If you're a Goldmember, you get first in line :-)

- Rent ConvertXtoDVD
We are now offering a new service for those who have a one-time only need to convert videos to DVD. In cooperation with the company Roozz, you can now "rent" the software for a limited period, at a very attractive price. More info here.

-User's opinion
Last month we introduced our new survey to collect customers opinions. The widget is now live on our website! Check it out here (on the right hand side).

Featured this month

- Meet Wesson
He's the brains behind ConvertX and also VSO's boss! Meet Wesson, founder of VSO and main developer.

Did you know?

-Which DVD should you use?
With so many brands and types to choose from, we're often asked "Which DVD do you recommend"? Here is a review of the best ones on the markets, and those to avoid. We cannot stress enough that a good brand is a key to trouble-free burning.

-Make music playlists with VSO Downloader
Take your favorite music along with you this summer! VSO Downloader does the job for you: simply open the program, select the MP3 conversion at the bottom, and play the music videos of your choice on YouTube (and thousands of other streaming sites). The software will download and convert the video to MP3 format. Then transfer it to your Ipod/MP3 player or burn it on CD with CopyTo!

If you want to contact us please use support form or our Facebook and Twitter accounts.

Bye for now!
The VSO Software Team